Our Heritage

John Jacob Astor IV was an avant-garde businessman, born and raised in the opulence of the New-Yorker's Aristocracy : A circle he would never fit in.

After divorcing his first wife, he fell in love with Madeleine, 18 years younger than him.

At that time, the high society of New York could not accept this situation and the scandal started. They needed to disappear for a while and chose to leave New York to Paris.

Attracted by the soul of the City of Lights, the couple decided to establish their home overseas, on rue d'Astorg Street, where the hotel is now located. When Madeleine got pregnant, she wished to give birth on the American soil.

The couple boarded on the transatlantic ship RMS Titanic to New York City. Unfortunately, we all know the sad ending of this journey.

J. J. Astor will never survive the sinking, but his wife and his descendent were rescued.
